NO VERDICT IN ALEXANDER CASE

Seems Hopelessly Hung and Retires For the Night.

ABLE SPEECHES MADE.

Celebrated Case Concluded After Four Days' Trial.

As we go to press at ten o'clock, the case seemed hopelessly hung, and had adjourned for the night to their rooms at the Fordham Hotel without reaching a verdict.

On the third day of the trial of Mr. Alexander began Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock and even at that early hour the court room was filled with spectators, many women being in attendance, and the crowd increased during the day until there was not a standing room.

The first witness called to the stand was George Paton, the Clerk of the Jefferson County Court, who testified that the assignees who had been appointed by the court to take charge of the individual property, real and personal of George Alexander. The one named Samuel Clay, declining to qualify, and afterward W. O. Hinton consented to take the trust and qualified in the office of the clerk.

Mr. Hinton, the assignee, then took the stand, and stated that the public sale of the assigned property resulted in realizing $26,000.

He was questioned on certain claims which were filed against Alexander's personal estate, amounting to $21,000. He reported that he still had on hand some shares in the Citizens' National Life Insurance Company, and stock in a few other concerns of not much value. Mr. Hinton was also questioned as to Mr. Alexander's interest in the O'Neil hemp machine, but that was not listed with the assignee.

The next witness was Buckner Woodford, Special Deputy Banking Commissioner, who has been in charge of the George Alexander & Company Bank since it was closed last May. Mr. Woodford stated that when he took charge of affairs he found cash on hand amounting to $126,000, $49,000 in good paper and $40,000 "in other paper," and real estate valued at $7,000; a total of $212,000. Also $201,000 of individual deposits. When asked if by resolving every dollar and piece of litigation on hand in favor of the bank and realizing on all assets how much the bank would be able to pay its creditors, he replied 75 per cent. But he did not think it possible to pay in full.

Mr. Woodford at request of the lawyers for the defense prepared a list of claims, names and amounts making up claims listed to the sum of $118,000; also a list of notes and outstanding obligations amounting to about $270,000 and a list of the doubtful or bad names and amounts. Mr. Woodford stated that the customary rate of interest on deposits in the Paris banks was 3 per cent. not 5.

Paul C. Snyder, accountant, was requested by the attorneys for the defense to prepare a copy of the assets and liabilities of the bank. The figures presented by Mr. Snyder in his further examination by the defense were the same as presented in his testimony the previous day. Mr. Woodford, recalled and asked about the expenses of the settlement, stated that about $3,300 had already been used, and $15,000 or $20,000 was set aside for the purpose. He said that $18,000 had been collected recently, and a dividend of 25 per cent. had been paid to the depositors.

LONG CONSULTATION HELD. A long intermission was taken at this stage of the trial for consultation, after which E. M. Dickson, attorney for N. Kreiner, was recalled in regard to notes that had been taken up as collateral for notes of Mr. Kreiner amounting to $37,000, for which he is suing. Mr. Dickson was informed that these notes were in possession of the bank and among the assets.

Mr. Snyder, recalled, said those notes were among the assets but nothing to show they belonged to Mr. Kreiner. Here the Commonwealth closed its case, and court adjourned until 1 o'clock.

When the court re-convened, R. C. Talbott, attorney for the defense, stated the case to the jury, saying that the main question involved was whether the bank was insolvent just before the time of closing and if Mr. Alexander knew it when he received certain deposits.

ALEXANDER TAKES STAND.

Mr. Alexander was then called to the stand. He stated he was 61 years of age, was born and reared in Paris, was with the Northern Bank until it went into liquidation. The new bank was first known as the George Alexander & Company Bank, organized in 1898, then as the George Alexander & Company State Bank in 1906. He was president of this bank, owning 1/4 of the 400 shares. The bank paid a dividend of 8 per cent. semi-annually, December 31 and June 30.

Mr. Alexander then detailed his visit to Frankfort to see Colonel Smith on Monday and his return the following day in company with three of the directors.

When Mr. Smith stated to him that he was "ruined" and that the bank must be closed, Mr. Alexander asked for time to get the cash with which to pay in full. He first asked until the following Sunday, and then for three days.

Colonel Smith said: "I wouldn't give you a minute," he testified. Mr. Bradley, Commonwealth's Attorney, then of the witness, asking the price of the bank stock at the time of closing, which witness said was $250 a share.

Mr. Alexander enumerated his personal assets just prior to the closing of the bank to show that he was solvent and stated that his individual credit and that of the bank was both good up to the closing of the bank. Asked if he received the deposit made by prosecuting witness, Doty, he said he did but he did not believe then nor did he believe now that the bank was insolvent. He testified that the pass-book of May Wilson showing a deposit of $250 was written by him except the figures, that he did not make the figures, and that figures had been erased and written over and the figures now in the book were not made by him.

"Dead" notes of Miss Lizzie Grimes, Mrs. Wiggins, J. G. Redmon, W. T. Redmon and others were shown him and he was asked who got the money on these "dead" notes. He said he got them, that he had already borrowed the limit from the bank and took this method of borrowing further, believing that it was perfectly good and could pay them at any time. He considered these "dead" notes, re-entered as assets of the bank, as his personal obligations and he only used in this way notes of such persons as he considered his best friends.

He went into detail as to how these notes were taken and insisted that each person who executed one of them was told what use he would make of them.

He stated that the notes of the bank, which are held as collateral on the Kreiner loan of $37,500, were ample security on that note. They were taken out of Mr. Kreiner's box to show the bank examiner when he came to examine the bank, but they were held by Mr. Kreiner as security for his loan to the bank.

Witness explained the borrowing of the $37,500 of government bonds from Mr. Kreiner in this way:

He said that he had been ill in a Cincinnati hospital for some time and when he returned he found that his bank had rediscounted with the Fifth and Third National Bank of Cincinnati to the extent of $115,000 and that the Cincinnati bank wrote him that his loan was too large and asked him to cut it down, and that the Kreiner bonds were borrowed and that amount of this indebtedness of the bank to the Fifth and Third was taken up.

Witness stated that he got the benefit of the notes to E. H. Owens, J. A. Wilson, E. B. Sparks, Mrs. Rosa Ashurst, Mrs. Rudisill and various others, aggregating many thousands of dollars. They were notes of the bank to these parties for money borrowed from them.

Witness, replying to question, stated that he was formerly connected with the old Northern Bank and when it liquidated he formed a bank of his own, and finally the old balances left over from the Northern Bank were transferred to his bank. Asked if he had not taken these balances and placed them to his own credit, he answered "yes, I did that." When asked whether, when the directors declared the last dividend, he had told them of the condition of the bank and that all these dead notes were among the assets, he answered:

"I did not; they had the right to examine the notes at any time."

Asked if he didn't know it was wrong to borrow money in the bank's name for his individual use he said "No, not so long as I was able to repay it."

He stated that he directed the transfers made from the account of Joe K. Redmon to other accounts, which were overchecked, and that this was done to reduce the volume of overchecks when excessive.

Asked why he had taken out a live note of the Hemphreys Company and substituted a dead note for it, he said that the examiner had stated that the loans to the Hemphreys Company were excessive and he had made the substituted a dead note for it, he said to deceive the examiner.

He stated that no person other than himself had received any benefit from any irregular transaction of the bank.

Alexander for more than an hour was engaged in identifying checks and notes which passed through his bank and which are involved in the bank's affairs. His voice was so weak that he could scarcely be heard twenty feet away and his manner was nervous and excited.

Depositions by John M. Craner and S. F. B. Morse, of New York City were read to the effect that they were last spring about to make a sale of the O'Neil Hempbreak Machine and patents to a syndicate in Canada and London, by which Mr. Alexander was to receive $125,000 in cash and a one-fourth interest in the new company which was to own and handle the machine, and that the negotiations had been temporarily stopped by the sinking of the Empress of Ireland last spring in the St. Lawrence River, with one of the principal Canadian members of the syndicate aboard, and that they believed the negotiations, which were only suspended, could be consummated, in which event they believed Mr. Alexander would profit to the extent of several hundred thousand dollars in addition to the cash payment of $125,000.

At the conclusion of Mr. Alexander's testimony, court adjourned until 7 o'clock, when upon reconvening two witnesses were introduced in rebuttal. Court then adjourned until 9 o'clock yesterday morning, for arguments to the jury.

Both Commonwealth's Attorney Victor Bradley, and Attorney Robt. B. Franklin, for the defense, were first shocked, and then amused, at a story published in a Lexington afternoon paper to the effect that a proposition had been made to Mr. Alexander to accept a term of five years in the penitentiary, and have the other thirty-one indictments quashed, and that Mr. Alexander refused. While neither Mr. Bradley or Mr. Franklin would deny the truth of the story, they were nevertheless astounded at its publication.

This morning the doors of the court room were besieged with a crowd, clamoring to obtain seats to listen to the closing arguments in the Alexander case. Within five minutes after the doors were opened, every seat and every available inch of standing room was filled with a crowd eager to see and hear every development of the closing day of the case. The morning session was prolonged to almost one o'clock. After the calling of the jury, and the warning of the court to the audience to refrain from any demonstration whatsoever, the court proceeded to instruct the jury. His instructions were brief and in effect as follows:

"If the jury believe beyond a reasonable doubt, that the defendant, George Alexander, did, while President of the George Alexander & Company, State Bank, receive deposit from J. W. Doty, knowing or believing at the time he received such deposit that the said bank was insolvent, they should find him guilty and fix his punishment at an indefinite term in the penitentiary, the minimum being one year and the maximum being ten years."

At the conclusion of his instructions the Judge specially warned the audience against any demonstrations of approval, disapproval or merriment during the progress of the arguments of counsel. County Attorney George Batterton opened for the prosecution. He spoke for about an hour. Former Commonwealth's Attorney, Robert B. Franklin presented the case for the defense.

He eloquently spoke of Alexander's appeal to the Banking Commissioner for three days of time to save himself, the bank and the community, and he severely excoriated the Banking Department for "the most wonderful piece of cruelty I have ever known to be imposed upon any community." He insinuated that politics was behind the prosecution by the Banking Department and that to boost their ambitions "they must catch a whale."

He told of the Deputy Commissioner reserving $20,000.00 to pay indebtedness of winding up the affairs of the bank when it should be distributed among the depositors. Mr. Alexander had reason to believe the bank was solvent. His Cashier, Mr. Davis, believed it. His bookkeeper, Mr. Mitchell, believed it. When the crash did come, it was like the explosion of the Maine. A shock to him as well as others. How prone some natures are to kick a crippled dog. How to-day as in the days of our Saviour in the cry "Crucify Him." He referred to memories of the white haired, dignified father of the defendant, who was President of the old Northern Bank. Alexander had helped many a young man. Are you going to send him to the penitentiary for that? Mr. Franklin closed with a peroration of eloquence in which he asked the jury to ignore everything in the evidence except that which directly pertained to the case on trial, and that all his client asked or wanted was justice.

At the afternoon session, Commonwealth's Attorney Bradley presented the argument for the State in a speech of two hours duration. It was one of the bitterest denunciations ever listened to in a Bourbon Court. He had listened to Mr. Franklin's speech and thought what a pity it should have been uttered in such an unworthy cause. "Since I have been connected with this case," he said, "I have been permeated with it. I have eaten it, I have slept it and I have dreamed it. Last night I dreamed, I was the defendant, Alexander. I saw a spirit in the room. It said 'I am the spirit of a home you have wrecked. Another spirit came, the spirit of a widow who have robbed. And still another and another, until a spirit larger and more powerful than all appeared. It was the spirit of the old blind woman who have robbed. I awoke with a shriek and lay there thinking, 'Is that man's feelings the work of a guilty conscience?' No, no one who has committed the crime he has, can have a conscience. The only punishment men will feel is what twelve honest men will give him. Why did Smith refuse to allow Alexander three days more time? Because in that three days more widows and orphans would have been robbed, and crying to-day for vengeance. I would to God myself, that the venerable father's reputation had been saved the disgrace and humiliation of having his son steal a few remaining dollars of deposit in his old bank. No matter what crime I might commit, I would never evoke the gray hair of my aged father to save me from the penitentiary. They say he helped Tom Moore; the only way he helped him was by stealing twenty thousand dollars from him. Alexander is a self-confessed criminal and he should go to the penitentiary for gambling with other people's money; for robbing widows and orphans and for committing every criminal act a banker could commit. He stole money because he thought he was going to get it back from a flax company in England. It's a far cry from Mag Wilson's two hundred and fifty dollars to the rax company in England. The idea of a bank being

ALEXANDER TRIAL.

MR. REVELLE TESTIFIES.

R. R. Revelle was then called to the stand. He stated that he was deputy under Thomas J. Smith, State Banking Commissioner, and that his duty was to assist the commissioner in looking after the examination of the State banks by the Banking Department. He stated that the Bank of George Alexander & Company was closed by the State Banking Department on May 19, 1914, following an examination of its affairs by Bank Examiner John Chennault.

Asked to go into details as to the events leading up to the closing of the bank, he said that after Examiner Chennault's report of examination of the bank was received by the department and they had considered it, Commissioner Smith said they would have to call Mr. Alexander to Frankfort, which they did by telephone, and he came down on May 18; that they interrogated him as to his own condition financially and he admitted that he owed the bank $61,000; that they then asked what property he had to meet this indebtedness and that he claimed to be worth $150,000, but that they were unable to learn of what his property consisted; that Mr. Alexander said he would go back home and return to Frankfort the next day with the board of directors of his bank which would verify his claim to be worth $150,000. He did return next day and brought all of the directors of the bank with him, but that he was still unable to secure a list of his property.

The witness stated that Commissioner Smith demanded that the $61,000 which Alexander owed the bank be removed from the assets if the bank were to continue in business and replaced by other assets.

He said the directors agreed to sign a note for this amount if Mr. Alexander would indemnify them by a mortgage on his property; that he then undertook to name his personal assets, and while speaking made the statement that there were certain debts which the bank owed which did not appear on the books of the bank and when asked to name them he mentioned a note to N. Kriener for $37,500, one to E. B. Sparks for a large sum, and several others.

Thereupon, the witness said, Commissioner Smith stopped him and told the directors, who were about to sign the note, that they must not sign it; that the bank was broke, and steps were at once taken to close it up.

A notice was drawn up and signed by all the directors that the bank had been placed in the hands of the State Banking Department, and witness came to Paris in the auto of J. W. Bacon, one of the directors, put up the notice and placed Buckner Woodford in charge of the bank as special Deputy Banking Commissioner.

Witness stated that the report made by George Alexander & Company to the State Banking Department on April 8, 1914, showed the overdrafts to be $4,103.80, and that an examination of the books showed the overdrafts at that time to be $20,942.60.

On cross-examination the witness stated that Mr. Alexander stated to Commissioner Smith that if he would give him ten days he would get the cash and place it in the bank for every dollar he owed it.

MR. J. W. DOTY TESTIFIES.

J. W. Doty was called and testified that on May 15, 1914, he deposited in the Alexander Bank $51.00 and filed his pass book, showing the deposit, which he said was taken in by Mr. Alexander himself.

MR. DAVIS RECALLED.

Mr. Owen L. Davis was then recalled and stated in answer to questions that he was related to Mr. Alexander by marriage; that his connection with the Alexander Bank had started in January, 1899, as keeper of the general ledger, and that he remained in that position up to July, 1909, when he was made cashier of the bank, but continued to keep the general ledger as before; that he received an increase of $300.00 per year in his salary after he became cashier, which was paid to him each six months by Mr. Alexander individually.

He stated that the morning of May 15, 1914, when Mr. Alexander went to Frankfort he asked witness to count the cash, as he was going to Frankfort, and "told me to count a memorandum that he gave me as cash. This memorandum contained two items of about $4,000 each. I asked him if that sum was in the safe in addition to what was in the drawer and he said 'yes,' but I didn't examine the safe to see." Witness stated that Mr. Alexander handled the notes; that he himself only made a few small loans when Mr. Alexander was away; that he had nothing to do with certain loans which were "numerated. He said he knew nothing of the notes of Miss Lizzie Grimes, the Redmons, et cetera; that he supposed these notes had not been paid, and if they had been paid he knew nothing of it. He stated he had never seen the stock of the Power Grocery Company, which was carried as assets of the bank, but understood it was there and didn't know it had ceased to be carried as assets. He said he knew T. E. Moore carried a large account but didn't know it had been closed; said he had no control of the bank except in a subordinate way, and no control at all of its policy.

He stated that Mr. Alexander sometimes transferred balances from some other account in the bank to make up overdrafts of depositors for the purpose of cutting down overdrafts and making a better showing in his statements to the Banking Department.

EXPERT P. C. SNYDER TESTIFIES.

Paul C. Snyder, Expert Accountant, who has been working on the books of the bank for several months, was next called.

Asked about certain notes, he said that a note of Miss Elizabeth E. Grimes for $2,500, of date June 16, 1913, and a note of J. G. Redmon and T. J. Redmon for $1,000 of date June 6, 1913, had been renewed as shown by the books, but the old notes were left in the bank and were afterwards re-entered among the assets of the bank and the proceeds of the Grimes note placed to the credit of John Johnson to pay a note Mr. Alexander owed Johnson, and $225 of the Redmon note was placed to Mr. Alexander's credit and the balance taken out of cash; that a note of J. G. Redmon for $2,800 of date of October 30, 1913, was renewed but had not been taken out of the bank; and was re-entered by Mr. Alexander among the assets of the bank and the proceeds of the "dead" note used to pay off a note of the O'Neil Hempbreak Company to the bank (Mr. Alexander being chief owner of the Hempbreak Company); that a note of H. C. Howard for $4,000 was paid by renewal of other old notes kept to take up another note of the Hempbreak Company. The Power Grocery Company's stock to the value of $42,500 was carried in the assets of the bank but were charged off, and certain notes amounting to $42,500 substituted in place of this stock.

When asked if these notes so substituted were collectible, defendant's attorney objected and witness was not allowed to answer. One note of Stuart & O'Brien for $1,000 was renewed and the old note kept and afterwards re-entered by Mr. Alexander among the bank's assets and the proceeds taken out in cash or in "cash items" taken up. Another note of Stuart & O'Brien for $1,000 was renewed and the old note afterwards re-entered and carried as an asset. The books of the bank show the O'Neil Hempbreak Company owed the bank a total of $42,500. This was paid by the Power Grocery Company stock which was carried at $42,500 on the books of the bank. This stock is the same that was wiped out by the substitution of the aforesaid notes for $42,500.

WITNESSES EXAMINED TUESDAY

Mr. Nick Kriener testified that he was approached by Mr. Alexander in regard to converting into cash $37,500 worth of Government bonds held in his deposit box, and loaning said proceeds, the value of which amounted to $43,500, to the George Alexander & Co., State Bank. Mr. Kriener said that he at first refused and later consented to let the bank have them provided they would pay him 6 per cent. interest. Mr. Kriener said that the bonds were converted into cash and that he took in lieu thereof the note of George Alexander & Company, State Bank, attached to which were a number of notes on substantial Bourbon people, same to be held as collateral on the bank's note. Mr. Kriener further testified that he placed all of the notes in his safety box at the Alexander Bank, and that no different occasions Mr. Alexander secured his key to the box. Mr. Kriener claimed the ownership of the notes that had been removed from his box, and further said that they had been taken out without his authority or consent.

Mr. W. T. Redmon identified two notes against him as carried by the bank. Mr. Redmon said the notes had been paid and were "dead notes."

Mrs. Rebecca Rudisill testified to loaning her money to Mr. Alexander for the bank, and thought that the bank alone was responsible for same. Didn't know that the note did not appear on the books of the bank.

Mr. Clarence Ashurst testified to loaning $3,500 belonging to his wife to the bank through Mr. Alexander. Refused to loan it to any individual. Only recently learned his loan did not appear on the books of the bank.

Maggie Wilson, colored, testified that she deposited with Mr. George Alexander on January 23, 1914, the sum of $250, and that same was credited on her pass book, said book being produced in court. The entry on the book was identified as being made by Mr. Alexander. Said that she did not know that entry did not appear on books of bank.

Attorney Emmett M. Dickson testified that he had an account as Master Commissioner with bank. Had never checked against this account which showed great discrepancy on books of the bank.

Mr. John R. Johnson testified that he had $2,310 on time deposit at the Alexander Bank, bearing 3 per cent. interest. Hadn't loaned any part of amount to Alexander. Two notes held by the bank he disclaimed any knowledge of.

Mr. Charlton Clay testified that he had signed an accommodation note for Mr. Alexander to the amount of $6,000. No consideration was given, and he didn't expect to pay it.

Mr. J. H. Fuhrman: Had signed two bank notes for Mr. Alexander, for accommodation. When told that both notes totaled $12,000, he said that no consideration was received by him and that he would not pay either note.

Mr. M. J. Murphy testified to giving Mr. Alexander his note for $10,000 as an accommodation note. Received no consideration for same, and would not pay it unless required to by courts.

Mr. Joseph Mitchell testified to signing a $2,000 note for Mr. Alexander, said same was without consideration. Mr. Mitchell identified notes of Clay, Fuhrman, Murphy, Mitchell, etc., as being filled out by Mr. Alexander.

Mr. A. J. Winters testified that he owed the bank no note for $970.10; had no such note in his possession. Had given notes from time to time at Alexander Bank.

Mr. E. H. Owings testified to loaning the Alexander Bank $7,500, which he expected to collect from said bank if possible. Didn't make loan to Geo. Alexander individually.

Dr. J. A. Wilson testified to having $20,000 on deposit at 3 per cent. interest in bank. Didn't loan any portion of same to Geo. Alexander.

Mr. E. B. Sparks testified to loaning the bank $15,000 at six per cent. interest. Didn't loan any portion of amount to Geo. Alexander.

Testimony developed the fact that Mr. W. A. Bacon had given Mr. Alexander an accommodation note for $12,000.

A paper was produced by Expert Accountant Paul C. Snyder purporting to have been an agreement of Mr. Alexander whereby the said Alexander agreed to be responsible to the Alexander Bank for all of the obligations of Messrs. Frank O'Neill, Sr., Frank O'Neill, Jr., and the O'Neill Hemp Break Machine Company. The paper bore signature of George Alexander.

The defense of Mr. Alexander is being looked after by attorneys R. C. Talbott and W. H. Whitley, of Paris, and R. B. Franklin, of Frankfort, while the Commonwealth's interests are in charge of Commonwealth's Attorney Victor Bradley, of Georgetown, and County Attorney George Batterson, of Paris.

It is thought that the Commonwealth will be able to finish its case sometime this morning, after which the defense will present its side of the case. To-morrow being Thanksgiving day, it is thought that the case will have to go over until Friday, as it is hardly probable that the case will reach the jury to-day.

IT REALLY DOES RELIEVE RHEUMATISM.

Everybody who is afflicted with Rheumatism in any form should at once keep a bottle of Sloan's Liniment on hand. The minute you feel pain or soreness in a joint or muscle, bathe it with Sloan's Liniment. Do not rub it. Sloan's penetrates almost immediately right to the seat of pain, relieving the hot, tender, swollen feeling and making the part easy and comfortable. Get a bottle of Sloan's Liniment for 25 cents of any druggist and have it in the house—against colds, sore and swollen joints, rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica and like ailments. Your money back if not satisfied, but it does give almost instant relief.

CASH BASIS TEST.

The State Journal, of Farnkfort, notes that a number of Kentucky newspapers, owing to the increased cost of printing material, etc., have raised their subscription price and that a still larger number of weekly papers are announcing that they have placed their subscription business on a basis of cash in advance strictly. That is the better plan, says the Journal. It does not pay to carry non-paying subscribers for the sole purpose of making a good circulation showing. There is not much money in circulation at best and a good many papers handle their subscription list in such a way that there is no money at all in it. Sensible advertisers are more impressed by the quality than the quantity of circulation, anyway, and are not apt to be impressed by a big list of subscribers that is mainly composed of persons who pay in promises.

The Government has placed an embargo on all kinds of lumber, to prevent its exportation; walnut lumber, including Circassian walnut, much prized by American furniture makers, is especially mentioned.

Experiences with forest fires on the national forests this year show that automobiles, where they can be used, furnish the quickest and cheapest transportation for crews of fire fighters. Motor rates are higher than those for teams for the actual time employed, but the total cost per distance traveled and in wages paid to men in getting to the fires is much less. The time-saving is self-evident; trip which ordinarily requires two days time by team have been made by automobile in a few hours.

Kentucky Man Tells How Mayr Stomach Remedy Restored Wife

Mrs. W. H. Clarke is Relieved After Years of Digestive Disorders.

Mrs. W. H. Clarke, of Central City, Ky., for many years suffered from disorders of the stomach. She tried many treatments with little encouragement.

Mr. Clarke induced her to try Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy. She got results right away. The he wrote:

"The medicine has done my wife a world of good, and I feel that it will cure her. I intend to keep on until she is completely cured, as you have been doing her more good than any one has ever done her, and she has been suffering with her stomach for years. I am glad I was told of the remedy."

Letters like that are written by users of Mayr's Wonderful Stomach

Remedy in all parts of the country. It proves its merit with the first dose—no long treatment.

Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy clears the digestive tract of mucoid accretions and removes poisonous matter. It brings swift relief to sufferers from ailments of the stomach, liver and bowels. Many declare that it has saved them from dangerous operations and many are sure it has saved their lives.

We want all people who have chronic stomach trouble or constipation, no matter of how long standing, to try one dose of Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy—one dose will convince you. This is the medicine so many of our people have been taking with surprising results. The most thorough system cleanser ever sold. Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy is now sold here by G. S. Varden & Son and druggists everywhere.

GROWING WINTER OATS IN THE SOUTH.

Every Southern farmer should grow enough oats to feed his work stock during at least a portion of the year. In addition to furnishing feed grain at less cost than it can be purchased, fall-sown oats prevent the washing of the soil by which much fertility is frequently lost. There is still time to sow winter oats in the Gulf States, though this work should be done at once if good results are to be obtained. According to specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, oats sown in the Southern States during October or the first half of November may be expected to produce at least twice the yield of grain obtained from spring sowing.

Winter grain may be sown on land which produced a crop of cotton, corn or cowpeas the past summer. If this land has not already been plowed, it will be better to make the surface soil fine and loose with the disk or drag harrow than to delay seeding by plowing now. Better results are obtained from sowing with the drill than from broadcast seeding, though if a drill is not available, sowing the seed broadcast on well-prepared land usually results in a good stand. If the preceding crop was well fertilized, 100 to 200 pounds of acid phosphate will be all that the oats require this fall, though a little nitrate of soda will help the fall growth, especially if the soil is not already well supplied with nitrogen from the growing of cowpeas or some other legume. A top dressing of 50 to 100 pounds of nitrate of soda applied when growth starts in the spring will greatly increase the yield.

The variety of winter oats most commonly grown in the South is Red Rustproof, Applier, Lawson, Hundred Bushel, Bancroft and Cook are selections or strains of Red Rustproof which are said to be particularly valuable in some localities. The Fulghum is a promising new variety which matures a week or ten days earlier than the Red Rustproof, and usually produces as much or more grain. As the kernels of all these varieties are large, from 2½ to 3½ bushels should be sown to the acre. The smaller quantity is sufficient if the seed is drilled early on well-prepared land, while 3 bushels or more are needed when the seed is sown broadcast late in the season. The Winter Turf or Virginia Gray is a very hardy variety which is valuable for pasture or hay production, but which does not yield as much grain in the Southern States as the Red Rustproof. On account of the small size of the kernels, only 1½ bushels of seed of this variety are required.

EXPOSURE OF BAKERY PRODUCTS TO CONTAMINATION

Inspections show that there is still much careless handling of bread after it leaves the bake shop. The law does not prescribe a particular way in which bread shall be protected from contamination, but it does provide that it shall be protected. Unwrapped and unenclosed bread, between the baker and consumer, between the baker and retailer, or between the retailer and consumer, such as the exposure of unprotected loaves to the dust of the streets, unclean hands of drivers, open wagons, carrying unprotected loaves to and from the street wagons, unclean bread boxes and other insanitary methods in small stores all constitute violations of the sanitary provisions of the Food and Drugs Act. Inspections are to be especially directed along this line, and all instances where bread or other bakery products are found so exposed will be reported for prosecution.

The department asks the co-operation of the bakers necessary to protect bread, and other bakery products, from contamination.

MR. WASHINGTON WEBB
SUICIDES AT HIS HOME.

Thanksgiving day was turned into a day of gloom for one household, at least, in Paris, when the news was brought to a stricken wife and relatives of the death by his own hand, of the head of the home.

Mr. Washington Webb, aged about sixty years, one of the best-known farmers of this county, died at his home on South Main street, about 12:25 o'clock yesterday from a bullet fired into his forehead with suicidal intent.

Mrs. Webb, who had been attending church in Paris, came home from the services and went out to her former home to spend the day with her brother, Mr. John Clay, at the old home place, on the Georgetown pike. Mr. Webb remained at home.

His sister, Mrs. Barlow, an invalid, was the only other person on the place. Mr. Webb was engaged in various occupations about the yard most of the morning, and was seen about the place as late as eleven o'clock, when some neighbors saw him working in the yard. He seemed in his usual good spirits, and was apparently in the best of health.

Mrs. Barlow talked to Mr. Webb some time and then went back to the house telling him she would call him when dinner was ready. About 12:30 she went to the door and called Mr. Webb several times, but hearing no response, set out in search of him. Not finding him in the rear yard, she proceeded to the barn, and, after a search, discovered Mr. Webb lying on his back in a box stall at the foot of a ladder leading from the hay loft above.

Thinking he had fallen from the hay loft and been badly injured, and without examining the body, Mrs. Barlow screamed aloud, her cries calling in some of her neighbors, Mr. J. A. Rice and family and Mr. R. J. Sale. To them she said, "Brother has fallen and been killed." Mr. Rice and Mr. Sale and other neighbors sometime before had heard a shot in the direction of the barn, but paid no attention to it.

Upon investigation, they found Mr. Webb on his back, a pistol wound in the center of his forehead and the pistol lying at his feet.

Everything indicated the most careful preparation for the deed. Mr. Webb had gone into the barn to the box stall where he was found, had spread out a lot of large feed sacks on the floor, then sat down on a wooden chopping block, and with his back to the partition, fired the shot that ended his life. He had taken off his coat and vest and hung them on a pitchfork.

Mr. Rice immediately called Coroner Rudolph Davis, who came to the scene at once and conducted an investigation. The body nor any of the surroundings had been touched. Coroner Davis found that death had been instantaneous, the bullet penetrating the skull and lodging in the brain. The skin on the forehead was blackened and burst by the powder from the bullet.

No note or anything that would indicate a motive for his self-destruction was left by Mr. Webb. His neighbors stated that they had not noticed anything unusual in his conduct, and that he had not seemed despondent or in bad health.

Mr. Webb was born and reared in Paris, but some years ago moved to a farm in the county, and after his marriage to Miss Birdie Clay some years ago, moved back to Paris, where he had since resided.

Coroner Davis empaneled a jury composed of Jno. S. Jones, foreman; A. T. Ingram, C. E. Myers, Jos. Godman, Robert Griffin and D. R. Bramel, who after hearing the statements of the witnesses, returned the following verdict:

"We, the jury, find the body before us to be that of Washington Webb, and from the evidence find that he came to his death from a pistol wound in his forehead, fired by his own hand."

RECORD PRICE FOR YEARLINGS.

The highest price paid for an untrained yearling trotter at auction since 1910 was realized in New York Tuesday, when Harvest Note sold for $2,100 at the opening of the twentieth annual "Old Glory" sale in Madison Square Garden. W. B. Miller, of Akron, O., and Richard Delafield, of Tuxedo Park, were the contending bidders for the colt, which was bred and consigned to the sale by L. V. Harkness, owner of Walnut Hall Farm, near Lexington. Mr. Miller, who was one of those who paid $36,000 for the thoroughbred stallion, Uncle, last year, finally bought the young trotter. Harvest Note is by San Francisco 2:07 1/2, out of Notelet, dam of the champion stallion, The Harvester 2:01 and is entered in futurities worth about $75,000. Walter R. Cox, of Dover, N. C., will train him for these engagements.

DEATHS.

DENIGAN.

Mrs. Rebecca Denigan, a native of Bourbon county, died recently at her home in San Francisco, Cal., after a brief illness of pneumonia.

Mrs. Denigan is survived by her husband, Mr. Thomas Denigan, one daughter, Mrs. Edward Demoulin, and one son, Mr. Edward Denigan, all of San Francisco.

She was a sister of Mrs. David Kennedy, of Bourbon, and Mr. William Myall, of this city. Other surviving brothers are: Messrs. Jerry, Frank, Edward and Charles Myall, of California, and Mr. Joseph Myall, of Washington, Iowa.

Mrs. Denigan lived in Paris until her marriage, and had frequently visited her Bourbon relatives.

The burial took place in California.

THOMAS.

—Mr. Clay Thomas, aged 37 years, a well-known young Harrison county farmer, died at his home near Broadwell, Saturday, after a long illness resulting from a complication of diseases. Mr. Thomas was married about eight years ago to Miss Bertie Ammerman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jake Ammerman. He is survived by his wife, father and sister, Mrs. Adda Kearns, of Bourbon. He was a nephew of Rev. Charles Thompson, of Mississippi, formerly of Lexington, and also of Keller Thompson, of near Lexington, and Wyatt Thompson, of Paris.

The funeral services were conducted at the residence near Broadwell, Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock, conducted by Rev. W. A. McClure, of the Broadwell Presbyterian Church. The remains were interred on the family lot in Battle Grove Cemetery, in Cynthiana.

LANCKART.

—Mrs. Susan Lanckart, aged 84 years, widow of Geo. Lanckart, Sr., died at her home in Lexington, Monday, after a protracted illness of infirmities of old age.

Mrs. Lanckart was the mother of Miss Annie Lanckart, of Lexington, and Miss Minnie Lanckart, of Ft. Worth, Texas, who have been frequent visitors in this city, and has one grandson, Mr. C. P. Bales, residing in Paris.

She is survived by one son, Geo. W. Lanckart, in Lexington, and eight daughters: Mrs. Stephen Bales, Mrs. William Lanckart, Misses Annie and Mattie Lanckart, of Lexington; Mrs. W. C. Witt and Miss Josie Lanckart, of Cincinnati; Miss Minnie Lanckart, of Ft. Worth, Texas; Mrs. Donald Waterman, of Los Angeles, Cal.

Funeral services were held at the residence Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock, conducted by Rev. E. J. Caswell. The burial followed in the family lot in the Lexington cemetery.

MATRIMONIAL.

—Marriage licenses were granted by County Clerk Pearce Paton to Miss Minnie Harney and Mr. C. B. Cassidy, both of near Muir, and Mr. Eddie Banta and Miss Georgia Booth, of the Little Rock precinct.

—Rev. J. S. Simms, pastor of the Methodist church, will occupy his pulpit at 10:45 o'clock Sunday morning. Night service at 7 o'clock. Sunday school at 9:30 a. m. Epworth League at 6:15 p. m. Subject: "Builders of a Universe." Leader, Miss Edith Brittain. The public is invited to all the above services.

JONES—EVANS.

—The marriage of John T. Evans, retired farmer, and Miss Sallie Jones, was solemnized at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the residence of the officiating minister, the Rev. J. H. MacNeill, in Winchester. Following the ceremony, they left in an automobile for Lexington, accompanied by Wesley Jones, a brother of the bride, and Miss Bernice Henry, who has been visiting her from Mt. Sterling. After a short honeymoon trip, Mr. and Mrs. Evans will reside on Garner street, in Winchester. Mr. Evans is well-known in this city and county.

BARR—WATKINS.

—Robert Barr, of Blackwell, Okla., and Mrs. Ellen Watkins, of Little Rock, this county, were quietly married Tuesday afternoon by the Rev. E. R. Lacey at his residence in Lexington. Mr. Barr, who is a native of Nicholas county, and Mrs. Watkins have been friends since childhood. The marriage is the second matrimonial venture for each. They expect to remain in Kentucky for about ten days before returning to Oklahoma, where they will make their home. Mr. Barr is accompanied by his son-in-law, Lefe Mann, of Blackwell. The groom is a farmer at Blackwell, where he has resided for four years.

BIRTHS.

—In his flight to Europe to replenish the wasted population of the war-torn countries, the Stork paused at the residence of Mr. Harry Saloshin Wednesday morning and left the household a ten-pound daughter. All doing well, including the happy father.

THINGS TO WORRY ABOUT.

At Carlisle, Monday, Crowe Shea was fined $5 for being drunk. Evidently imagined he was a knitting needle, and got his skeins tangled up.

WHEAT GROWERS PUZZLED.

Wheat growers in several counties adjoining Bourbon are deeply puzzled at present over the condition of the winter wheat. In a number of fields the stalks are dying close down to the ground and so far the farmers have been unable to account for it. Samples have been forwarded to the Agricultural Bureau at Frankfort. So far there has been no complaint from Bourbon county farmers.

ALEXANDER TRIAL.

solvent, because it could cash a check for ten dollars or so, is so ludicrous as to be pitiful. If Smith had given him three days, he could not have cashed a check for three cents, as he stole eight thousand dollars the morning he went to Frankfort. Of the seventeen thousand dollars in over-drafts, Mr. Alexander said, "Four hundred and five dollars were bad." Mr. Woodford is a man highly respected in the community. Mr. Alexander is a self-confessed forger, embezzler and perjurer. Which one will you believe? Mrs. Rudisill, whom he robbed, asked what was the meaning of the term "State Bank." Mr. Alexander told her it meant the State was back of his bank. Where in the heart of any man is there a place for him, who would rob that silver-haired, sweet faced, old blinded woman? Did he know his bank was insolvent? Gentlemen! He committed himself, the act which made it solvent. Oh! the irony! the tragedy and the sarcasm of connecting this case with Thanksgiving Day. Has Mag Wilson, the poor negro nurse, has Mrs. Rudisill, has Mrs. Allis, have the hundred of poor depositors ought to be thankful for? He thinks by his arrogant manner that you dare not send him to the penitentiary. He has admitted on the stand every crime known to a banker. If you turn him loose he is liable to hit some one in the head and steal his money, and say he did not intend to hurt him. He has been contradicted by his own sister, his nephew and his dearest friends, and by each and every witness on the stand. It is pitiful to hear E. H. Owens, with tears in his eyes, say, he is still his friend. Yet he changed the name of a check and stole fourteen hundred dollars from Mr. Owens. What payment for friendship. He tells you Murphy, Fuhrman, Winters all lied. The only one who asked for and has a receipt for these transactions is Mr. Bacon, and he is out of the State. A peculiar coincidence. He is self-convicted, yet he believes that by his brazen and arrogant manner, you will be afraid to do your duty and send him to the penitentiary. All I ask of you is to ask yourself, who created the forty thousand dollars in worthless paper. Who created the hundred and eighty thousand dollar indebtedness which does not show on the books? Who robbed Ed. Owens, Mrs. Allis, Mrs. Rudisill and all the others? I ask you to give a verdict that will ring around this State and even to the Waldorf Astoria, in New York, where lies the money of Mrs. Allis, stolen to create a Roman holiday for him of one day."

The jury retired at 3:27, and after being out one hour and forty minutes were called in by Judge Stout and asked if they had agreed upon a verdict. Foreman Thomason replied they had not. Judge Stout then gave them the usual admonition and turned the jury over to the Sheriff and told them that they could return to the court house and deliberate and that if they had reached a verdict by ten p. m. to call him. The jury then retired.

RABBITS WITH DIPHTHERIA.

From different sections of the State and especially from the Central Kentucky counties, come reports of the finding of numerous dead rabbits that are supposed to have died from diphtheria. One farmer in Pendleton county reports having picked up sixteen dead rabbits in a field in the course of an afternoon walk.

Rabbits found dead in Nicholas county and suspected of having died from the disease have been sent to Mr. J. Quincy Ward, Executive Agent of the State Fish and Game Commission, and he has sent them to Dr. Lillian South, at the State Board of Health laboratory, at Bowling Green for examination. It is doubted in some circles whether the animals have really died of diphtheria, but Mr. Ward is going to find out.

PRISONER ESCAPES.

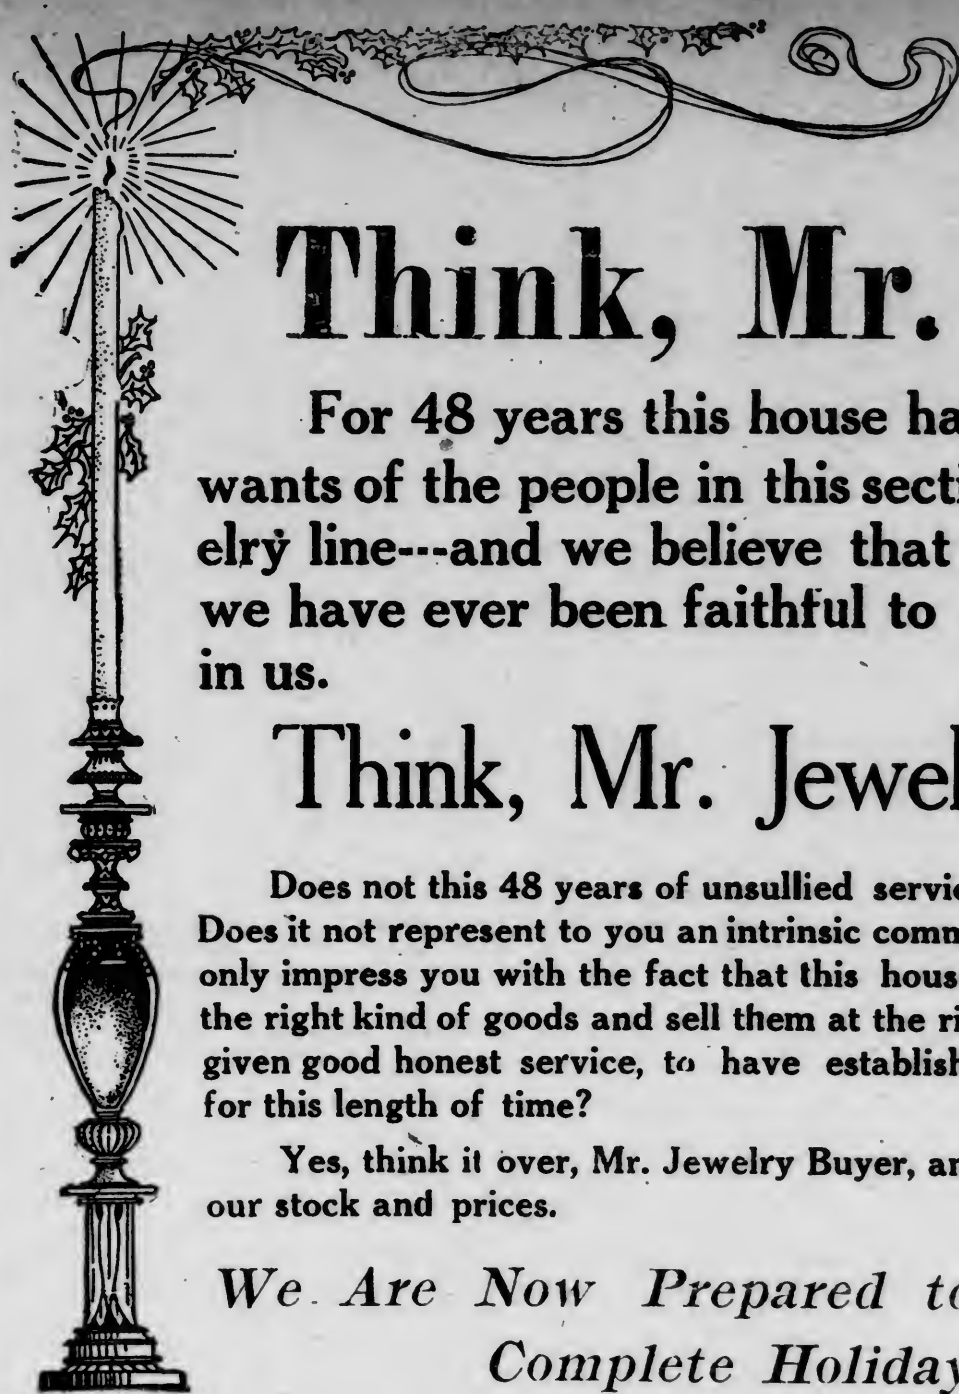

George Innes Simpson, a saddle-colored citizen, who was recently made a ward of the county under a charge of shooting and wounding with intent to kill, made his escape from the county rock quarry, in East Paris, Wednesday afternoon while the attention of the guard was attracted elsewhere. Simpson watched his opportunity, and when the guard's back was turned he slipped behind a row of dump carts and made his way across the creek. The guards gave pursuit, but Simpson made his get-away clean, and is still at large.

"ON TO LOUISVILLE."

The Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., Mr. Earl L. Mast, has announced the names of the young men who will go from Bourbon to the Older Boys' Conference, which will be held in Louisville the last of this week. The delegates are: Messrs. Hiram Adair, Claude Ballard, Basil Hayden, Russell Clayton, Maurice Clark, Clyde Burberry, Chas. L. Leach, Landen Temple, Thos. McClintock, LeWiss Mitchell, Julian Thomas and Dennis Snapp. The boys will be accompanied by Rev. O. R. Mangum, Prof. C. P. Lancaster and Secretary Earl L. Mast. The party left Paris this morning at 7:48, by way of Lexington. Mr. Dennis Snapp is on the program for the opening session this afternoon with a paper on "The Quest of the Best in Our Quiet Hours." On Friday night there will be a banquet of the delegates at the Louisville Y. M. C. A. Building and on Saturday afternoon there will be a sight seeing trip around the town. On Sunday afternoon there will be a boys' meeting of Louisville boys and visiting delegates, known as the "Step Forward Meeting." The party will return to Paris on Monday morning.

Think, Mr. Buyer!

For 48 years this house has catered to the wants of the people in this section--in the Jewelry line---and we believe that in all that time we have ever been faithful to the trust placed in us.

Think, Mr. Jewelry Buyer.

Does not this 48 years of unsullied service stand for something? Does it not represent to you an intrinsic commercial value? Can it not only impress you with the fact that this house must not only handle the right kind of goods and sell them at the right prices, but also have given good honest service, to have established an honorable record for this length of time?

Yes, think it over, Mr. Jewelry Buyer, and then call and inspect our stock and prices.

THE HOUSE OF QUALITY FOR JEWELRY,

SHIRE & FITHIAN

ILLITERACY CAMPAIGN
SUCCESSFULLY LAUNCHED.

The Bourbon county end of the State-wide campaign to stamp out illiteracy was successfully inaugurated in Paris, Wednesday morning, when a large and appreciative audience gathered in the auditorium of the Paris City Schools, and listened with rapt attention to a remarkably fine address by Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart.

Mrs. Stewart, as is now well-known, is the originator of the "moonlight school" movement, and her splendid work in this direction has attracted the attention of all America. She is easily one of the foremost women of to-day in educational work. She is a highly-educated, noble woman, and her work deserves the many compliments paid her.

The attendance on this occasion proved the desire of the people of this section to assist in a worthy undertaking, and all came away enthused and determined to lend a helping hand.

Mrs. Stewart's address was a stirring narrative, simply but beautifully told, and was largely an appealing story of the eagerness with which those "who were in darkness" of illiteracy seized the opportunity of gaining the rudiments of an education. She paid a splendid tribute to the teachers of the State who had volunteered without additional pay to serve in the moonlight schools, and said that all the commission asked was a small fund to provide the paper and pencils and books necessary to carry on the correspondence. The conclusion of her address was full of eloquence.

"Hasten the day," she said, when the rural dweller, wherever he may be, whether in the mountains, or by the sea, in the cotton fields or on the Western plains, may have a school that is open not only to his wife, his grown son and his aged father and his hired man and himself by night. Hasten the day when there shall be no men and women in this country who have eyes to see, but see not the splendid truths which have been written in books, and who have hands to write, but write not the thoughts which, if recorded, might stamp with genius someone whose wisdom the world, in its urgent need, is seeking."

WINTERS' AUCTION
NOW GOING ON.

Attend the auction of high-grade jewelry at Winters'.

COUNTY TAX DUE.

The county tax lists are now ready. Pay your taxes before December 1, and save the six per cent. penalty that will attach on all unpaid taxes on that date.

W. F. TALBOTT,
Sheriff Bourbon County.

THANKSGIVING DAY FIT-TINGLY OBSERVED HERE.

That Thanksgiving bird which is always condemned to die in order to promote the happiness of an entire nation of the first harvest reaped by the new lease of life in the larger cities of the United States, but in Paris, Kentucky, the sentence of death as officially promulgated, was carried out, and the royal bird went to his death in thousands of different ways in the homes and hotels of the city.

In some homes, however, chicken and other fowl supplanted the national bird as a Thanksgiving meat, and the turkey, which has participated in all previous Thanksgiving festivals, had a real season for giving thanks for the first time since the American people set aside a day in commemoration of the first harvest reaped by the Pilgrims at Plymouth. But to most Kentuckians a Thanksgiving dinner would not be complete if the brown and bronze turkey, with its appetizing odor and the essential trimmings, were not present. Thanksgiving and turkey are synonymous.

Turkeys this year, like fashionable feminines, had to be slender and sylph-like. Whether the craze for reducing or the craze for "turkey trotting" was responsible has not been definitely decided. One commission man blames the climate for this year's style in turkeys.

"If it had snowed this year we would have had fat turkeys," said this Paris commission man. "You see, turkeys do not realize that Thanksgiving is coming unless there is snow on the ground. As long as the grass is green and dirt convenient, turkeys, like some people insist on running around and having a good time. But when the blanket of white is drawn the National bird resigns himself to his decreed fate and loafs around until the day of judgment comes, in the meantime putting on a much desired coat of fat."

Union Thanksgiving services were held in the Methodist Church, addresses being made by a number of speakers. The musical part of the services was in perfect accord with the spirit of the occasion, and was delightfully rendered. Services were held at the Episcopal Church in the morning hour, the rector, Rev. George H. Harris, delivering an appropriate sermon.

A large number of hunters took to the fields, this being their way of returning thanks, after being tied to their various occupations in the city for weeks at a time without a vacation.

Quite a number went to Lexington to witness the struggle for gridiron honors between football eleven of the Transylvania and the Central University team from Danville.

Special features at the local picture houses were largely patronized by the people, the holiday spirit seemingly pervading all lines of business. Most of the business houses were closed in the afternoon in order to give their employees the benefit of a half-holiday.

Schools closed Wednesday and many of the pupils of the schools at other places came home to participate in the festivities incident to the observance of the day.

The banks and postoffice were closed, and the rural carriers and the city carriers made but one mail delivery during the day.

The Louisville & Nashville reports an extensive holiday travel, students returning to their homes from the various colleges and educational institutions making the Tenth street passenger station a merry place.

WINTERS' AUCTION TO-DAY.

Don't fail to attend the auction sale to-day at Winters'. Every article of jewelry in this high-class store, diamonds excepted, is being sold to the highest bidder. Two sales daily at 2:30 p. m. and 7:30 p. m.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving remembrance of little Nathan Bayless Adair, who died November 22, 1914.

"Neath our eyes he faded slowly,
Growing day by day more frail;
Bearing sweetly all his suffering
Without murmur, moan or wail:
Like a pure and spotless lily
Soft unfolding to the sun,
Turns with faith our dear one
To his best beloved one.

"Yes, the sweet little voice
We loved to hear is still
And the vacant spot
Left by his going
In the hearts of all loved
Him can ne'er be filled.

"But God in His goodness
Has taken the bright little Darling to join the Sweet angels in Heaven
Where all is perfect happiness
And suffering and Trouble are no more.

"A FRIEND."

LEXINGTON MOVIE

For the benefit of the "Baby Milk Fund." A recent venture in movie land by Lexington society ladies has proved a big success and the "Baby Milk Fund" will be doubt be enhanced to a great extent by the exhibition of their picture "When the Tango Craze Hit Lexington!"

Mr. R. A. Nixon was in town Tuesday and made arrangements to run the picture in the Columbia Theatre next Tuesday afternoon and evening. This pretty little film story carries with it a strain of comedy seldom seen on the picture screen and all who have seen the picture are loud in their praise for it.

Here is an opportunity to see an exceptionally good program and at the same time help along a good cause. Even if you have not the time to see the show you have the opportunity to drop your dime in at the box-office if you see fit. Remember the date and come and bring your friends.

GIRLS' CLUB ORGANIZED.

A girls' club, conducted along lines similar to the Woman's Club, of this city, and called the "Girls' Pastime Club," has recently been organized by the young ladies of the Fourth Grade in the Paris Public School, with the following officers: Miss Nannette Arkle, president; Miss Elizabeth Stuart, vice-president; Miss Virginia Hancock, secretary; Miss Ruth Wheeler, treasurer. Miss Wheeler was the hostess at the club's first entertainment last Saturday. On next Saturday the club will be entertained by Miss Mary Frances Burns.

ELKS' ROAST PIG.

Paris Lodge No. 373, B. P. O. E., gave a delightful "roast pig social" Tuesday evening, at their rooms in the Bourbon Bank & Trust Co.'s building. The menu comprised many "delicacies of the season," but the piece de resistance was young roast pig, garnished and browned. A social hour followed. The whole affair was greatly enjoyed by all. The News force acknowledges kindly remembrances from the Elks, in the shape of substantial portions of the feast, incomparable in quality, and generous in quantity.

BOX AND PIE SUPPER.

A box supper and entertainment for the benefit of the Palmer school house was given in the school building on Wednesday evening, at 7 o'clock. The offerings were numerous and of a varied nature, and realized a neat sum for the school.

At the Spears' Mill school on the same night the teachers, pupils and patrons of the school had a great time at an old-fashioned "pie supper," the proceeds of which, a nice little sum, will be donated to the improvement of the school. Everybody had a good time.

THIEF CAPTURED.

Albert Thomas, colored, was arrested in Winchester and returned to Paris by Jailer Jos Farris, on a warrant charging him with grand larceny. The complaint was made against Thomas by Fred Peyton, an employe of a railroad construction camp near Austerlitz, he alleging that Thomas had stolen a pair of trousers and a suit of clothing belonging to him from a camp car which Peyton was occupying. The property was disposed of at a second-hand dealer in Winchester, and afterward identified by Peyton as his property. Thomas is being held here awaiting an examining trial.

NEW STORE, NEW STOCK.

Having disposed of our old stock as a whole, as a result of the dissolution of the firm, I have replaced it with an entire new and up-to-date line of the most durable and fashionable shoes that could be bought. It will be my aim to carry the very best and at the same time have all grades of shoes, from the lowest priced to the most costly. High-class ladies' and gents' shoes a specialty. Remember our stock is entirely new, not an old pair of shoes in the store. You are invited to call.

(27-11) GEO. MCWILLIAMS.

AN AUCTIONEER OF MERIT.

Mr. Sam Goldblat, of Buffalo, N. Y., who is conducting the jewelry auction of A. J. Winters & Co., is surely an auctioneer of merit. Few, if any, salesmen, has ever worked in Paris that has given the trade as polite service as has Mr. Goldblat—he is courteous, matter of fact, and not like most people in his line, full of "con," "hot air," etc. He tells what he is selling and sells it. His word is made good by the "Winters guarantee." No rough jokes or funny stories are indulged in by him. It is a pleasure to attend Winters' Auction, whether you get any of the bargains or not.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

MR. OLIVER CLAY TO CONDUCT TOBACCO SALES.

The Bourbon Tobacco Warehouse Company has re-engaged the services of Mr. Oliver H. Clay, of Waldon, Indiana, as auctioneer on the breaks at their house.

Mr. Clay made a splendid record as an auctioneer during the season last year, and his thorough familiarity with the comforting weed, and the manner of handling it on the floor greatly facilitated the work of buyers and handlers. Mr. Clay will move to Paris with his family to remain until the close of the season.

CIRCUIT COURT.

Following an adjournment taken from last Friday, the grand jury met Tuesday and after making its final report to Judge Stout, was discharged. The jury returned a number of indictments against various offenders, mostly of a minor nature.

The time of the court since the beginning of the Alexander trial has been occupied by that case.

WARE OF DICTOGRAPH

ALWAYS POSSIBILITY OF ONE'S WORDS BEING OVERHEARD.

Widespread Eavesdropping Has Become a Common Thing—Are Also Being Used to Save Time in Commercial Houses.

Wherever you go nowadays there's very likely to be a dictograph listening to every word you say and transmitting the sound of your voice to somebody whose ears perhaps you don't care at all about having your conversation reach. In New York city it is said 50 dictographs are purchased every week by jealous husbands and wives, but the number of these devices used for such doubtful domestic purposes is small compared with those which are being installed for commercial purposes in offices, stores and factories.

The use of the dictograph to secure evidence in a number of sensational criminal cases has made the public quite familiar with the methods by which it makes widespread eavesdropping possible. The transmitter is a little disk so small that only a careful search will reveal it when put in place behind a picture or somewhere else on the wall. This transmitter is so sensitive that it will carry every sound uttered in a room for long distances. Carefully concealed wires connect it with the receiving end of the apparatus, which is often disguised as a paper weight or hidden away in a desk.

The work of paying tellers in many large banks is greatly simplified by the use of the dictograph. When a depositor calls to withdraw a large amount the teller may not be sure that the account shows a sufficient balance to cover the withdrawal, but he does not like to offend by stating his doubts.

So the teller presses a button to signal a bookkeeper to put his ear to the other end of the dictograph system, whose transmitter is concealed in the teller's counter. Then the teller picks up the check and remarks casually but distinctly enough for the dictograph to carry his words: "Two thousand dollars. How will you have it, Mr. Blank?"

This question is the signal for the bookkeeper to turn to the ledger and see if Mr. Blank's account is good for $2,000. If it is he quickly signals the teller by ringing a buzzer once; if it is not, he gives two rings.

In large safety deposit concerns much tiresome running back and forth is saved by having the clerks in the vaults and the bookkeepers in the offices work with dictograph receivers fastened to their ears and transmitters on their chests. The wires connecting them run down their trousers legs and trail along the floor.

Claim agents of many corporations find the dictograph of service in detecting fraudulent claims for damages. Each claimant has his witnesses made to wait for a few minutes in a very completely "dictographed" room. If the claim is fraudulent they are likely to take this opportunity to rehearse their stories and agree on the testimony they are going to give. But their every whisper is heard and taken down by a stenographer in an inner office, and the best laid plans are often thus exposed by the conspirators themselves.

Suggests Scotch Dish.

An enthusiastic who would lower the cost of living suggests that Americans eat the Scotch dish called haggis. This philanthropist tells how it is made. First, get the stomach of a sheep, he says, and turn it inside out, wash it and soak it in salt water. Then take the liver, lights and heart of the same sheep, boil them till they are cooked all the way through, after which mush them up, mix with chopped onions and powdered oatmeal cakes, and season with pepper and salt. Take this mess and put it in the prepared sheep's stomach and pour in a cup of gravy. Sew up the mouth of the stomach and punch little holes around it and boil it for four hours and a half. After which it is eaten. "It was a brave man who ate the first oyster," said someone, but the American who will eat this thing called haggis will be entitled to one of the Kaiser's iron crosses.—New York Letter to the Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Poincare Is Head of the Army.

When M. Poincare visits the French troops in the fighting line he does nothing in the way of directing their movements. He is, however, entitled to do so, if he cared to exercise the powers conferred on him. One of the articles of a law passed in 1875 enacts that the president shall rank as responsible head ("chef agissant de sa personne") of the army and the diplomatic service, and, further, that in time of war he may, if he so pleases, take supreme command of the troops in action. This clause was inserted in the constitution on the express demand of Marshal MacMahon, and has never been modified in any way.

Temperance Conundrum.

"I can't understand finance. One thing puzzles me extremely. 'What's that?' 'If they put so much water in the stocks, how can money get tight?'"

Too Much Love.

"Darling, I think of you every moment in the day." "Law sakes, Tom, give some attention to your work or you'll get fired."

THEATRICAL.

Billie Burke at Lexington. Miss Billie Burke with a splendid supporting company that includes Shelly Hull, Oliver Oliver, Dorothy Dorr and Thomas Reynolds, all players of talent and experience comes to the Ben Ali Theatre, Lexington, Wednesday, December 2, matinee and night, to present her greatest comedy success "Jerry." This is the piece in which Miss Burke won a triumph at the Lyceum Theatre, New York, last spring, a triumph that has been confirmed in many cities this season. She impersonates a particularly adorable and mischievous young Chicago girl who plays pranks on her serious monied Philadelphia relatives, wears pink pajamas and wins a husband all in the course of three acts, chuck full of amusing situations and witty dialog. The role it is said shows the charming actress at her most delightful best. Mr. Charles Frohman has provided a magnificent scenic production for this play.

The sale of seats will open Monday Nov. 30. All orders for seats sent to the Ben Ali Theatre if accompanied by a remittance and a self addressed envelope will receive prompt attention. Prices are fifty cents to two dollars. 27-2t

LIVESTOCK EXPOSITION IS DECLARED OFF.

The News is in receipt of the following from Mr. B. H. Heide, Secretary of the International Livestock Exposition, at Chicago:

"It is with extreme regret that I have to announce that the International Live Stock Exposition for 1914 has been declared off by reason of the appearance of the dreaded 'foot and mouth' disease in the East and middle Western country.

"The Federal Government has taken the most careful and energetic action to confine the disease in the region of its appearance, and it has been deemed unwise to bring together the enormous crowds that flock to the 'International.'

"As you are well aware the Union Stock Yards has been closed down for a period of ten days, the first time in fifty years that not a hoof has been in the yards. Under Federal inspection, it was thoroughly cleaned and disinfected and all stock is now being unloaded in daylight under Federal inspection, in order to prevent any possibility of any infection.

"All interests here at the yards are co-operating most energetically in supporting the Government and States in the elimination of this dreaded scourge of Europe. Every one should heartily co-operate in this endeavor to stamp out, in no uncertain manner, this awful disease and not permit it to jeopardize the value of their herds and flocks.

"Yours very truly,
"R. H. HEIDLE, Secretary."

PREVENTION OF COMMUNICABLE DISEASES AMONG LIVE STOCK.

Following is the law in brief, recently enacted by the General Assembly in this State for the prevention of communicable diseases among live stock. It is especially apropos at this time and these provisions are published because few live stock breeders and dealers are familiar with it.

Sec. 1. The duty of the owners of live stock to report any communicable disease to the County Live Stock Inspector. (Dr. Hamilton in Bourbon Live Stock Inspector.)

Sec. 3. Duty of Live Stock Inspector to inquire into any communicable disease, and immediately establish a temporary quarantine to prevent the spread of disease, and report such action to the State Live Stock Sanitary Board.

Sec. 4. Any person who has in his possession any animal affected with disease and allows such animal to run at large where domestic animals not previously exposed can come into contact with the affected animal, or who shall ship, drive or sell an animal affected or move any animal against the direction of the Stock Inspector and Sanitary Board, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not less than $25 or more than $100 for each diseased animal exposed or sold.

Sec. 6. Makes it a fine of $10 to $50 to evade the quarantine of the State Live Stock Inspector of the existences.

Sec. 7. Any person who shall neglect or refuse to notify the said County Live Stock Inspector of the existence of any communicable disease shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and fined not less than $5 or more than $25.

Sec. 9. Any person who knowingly brings stock into the State affected with any of the enumerated communicable diseases shall be fined from $25 to $100.

Especially attention to Section 7 making it a misdemeanor for failure to report hog cholera, foot and mouth disease or other communicable diseases.

REMARKABLE CURE OF COUP.

"Last winter when my little boy had croup I got him a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I honestly believe it saved his life," writes Mrs. J. B. Cook, Indiana, Pa. "It cut the phlegm and relieved his coughing spells. I am most grateful for what this remedy has done for him." For sale by all dealers. adv. (Nov.)

GETTING ONE'S SECOND WIND.

Explanation of Action Familiar to Every Athlete Is a Most Simple One.

The probable explanation of the "second wind" is as follows: In the deep breathing of an athletic person taking moderate exercise at sea level, lack of oxygen plays no part. The effect is wholly due to an increased production of carbonic acid stimulating the respiratory center, which responds proportionally. On very violent exertion at sea level, however, and on even moderate exertion at a great altitude, the oxygen supply to the tissues of the body is temporarily insufficient.

Substances other than carbonic acid, such as lactic acid, are produced, and, when these substances reach the respiratory centers by the way of the blood they excite it to such activity that one overbreathes. That is, the violent panting ventilates the carbonic acid out of the blood more rapidly than the body is producing it. The substances which thus overestimate the respiratory center are not volatile and cannot be given off by way of the lungs, but they appear to be rather rapidly oxydized in the blood.

When the carbonic acid has been considerably diminished a part of the stimulus to the respiratory center is removed so that one can breathe more moderately—that is, one gets his "second wind." When the exertion stops, the production of the stimulating substances ceases, and the quantity of carbonic acid in the blood having been reduced below the amount necessary to stimulate the respiratory center, one falls into a period of apnoea followed by Cheyne-Stokes breathing, like an engine with a sensitive governor and no flywheel. Breathing oxygen under these conditions hastens the combustion of the acid substances which have accumulated in the blood. —Yale Review.

Brave Old Admiral Hawke.

The British cruiser Hawke, blown up in the North sea by a German submarine, was named after one of England's most daring admirals, Baron Edward Hawke. Not only was he a sturdy fighter, but without a superior as a seaman. His great achievement was the destruction of the French fleet of De Constan, near Quiberon, on November 21, 1759. Hawke sighted the enemy off the Morbihan. De Constan, after clearing the decks for action, decided to fight another day and to run for the Quiberon anchorage. As a storm was rising and the coast one of the most dangerous in the world, he assumed that the English admiral would not follow him, but Hawke pressed on sail and opened fire as darkness was falling. He had 21 ships to the enemy's 20. The engagement was won after dark, Hawke losing only two ships. The old admiral would turn in his grave if he knew that a vessel named after him was sunk on blockade, for it was a kind of duty in which he had no peer in his time, keeping the sea in winter gales and never losing a ship. —New York Sun.

Usual Causes of Indigestion.

Dr. Henry P. De Forest, medical examiner to the New York civil service commission, says that irregular and too short hours for meals are a common cause for indigestion; and he admits that the physicians themselves are about the worst violators of the law against irregular meal hours. He also says that too great a consumption of prepared foods does away with the use of the teeth and, therefore, the food passes to the stomach without proper mastication and that even the stomach itself does not have enough to do when insufficient solid food passes through it. Improper food, modes of dress, sedentary indoor life, too little water and too much iced water taken with meals, excess of stimulants and too much hot bread, are among other causes for chronic catarrh of the stomach and constipation mentioned by Dr. De Forest.

Sweden and Norway.

One hundred years ago, following the brief war between the two countries comprising the Scandinavian peninsula, the Norwegian parliament voted to accept the supremacy of Sweden, and elected the king of Sweden for king of Norway. The Scandinavian union, as finally agreed on, made the person of the king and his management of the foreign affairs of the country the only common bond. Each country retained its own constitution, parliament and cabinet. This agreement continued in force for nearly a hundred years, until 1905, when the desire of the Norwegian people for complete independence led to a peaceful dissolution of the union and the election of Prince Charles of Denmark to the Norwegian throne under the title of King Haakon VII.

Streets Can Be Paved With Glass.

A new use for the glass dust that collects in glass works has recently been discovered in Berlin. The dust is gathered up and placed in a furnace, where it is reduced to molten "lava." The lava is then molded into glass bricks which are as hard as granite and eminently adapted for paving.

The World Burden.

It has been estimated that the war will destroy one-fourth of the world's wealth. That loss will reach to the utmost confines of the earth, and all will feel its effect—farmer, merchant, and manufacturer alike.—Manufacturer's Record.

W. LA RUE THOMAS DEAD.

W. La Rue Thomas, a native of Kentucky, and one of the most prominent Masons in the United States, died in Tucson, Arizona, Wednesday.

Mr. Thomas was past grand master of the Grand Lodge of Kentucky, past grand high priest of the Grand Chapter of Kentucky, past eminent commander of the Grand Commandery of Kentucky and past grand master of the Knights Templar of the United States. Although he had not been a resident of Kentucky for a number of years, he was a regular attendant at the annual meetings of the Kentucky Grand Lodge and Grand Chapter and took a keen interest in the Masonic Home.

Mr. Thomas was reared in Danville. He was a graduate of Center College. Until two years ago he had made his home in Pittsburg, where he was president of a life insurance company, leaving Pittsburg to make his home in Arizona and retiring from business.

The body will be brought to Danville for burial. Funeral services will be under Masonic auspices. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary W. Thomas; four sisters, Mrs. A. C. Hodges and Mrs. S. V. Leedom, of Russellville, Ky., and Mrs. J. J. Norton and Mrs. J. A. Coons, of Louisville, and a brother, W. B. Thomas, of Danville.

DIES FROM INJURIES.

After lingering in great agony for two weeks at the Good Samaritan Hospital, in Lexington, Della Cunningham, colored, who was badly burned by her clothing catching fire from an open grate, died as the result of her injuries. She was hurried to the hospital in an ambulance, where her injuries were given immediate attention, but she was so horribly burned that medical science could not save her. The remains were brought here and interred at her old home near Little Rock.

MULES FROM KENTUCKY.

Newton Rankin, a Nicholas county stockman, stated Wednesday that he had just completed the shipment of 1,284 mules—sucklings, yearlings and two-year-olds—to Pennsylvania and Maryland, for which he paid the farmers of Kentucky more than $80,000.

"Business is on the mend in the East, and the country in a very short time will enter into an era of unprecedented prosperity," he said. "The situation in the South, however, is distressing. The cotton farmers are selling their mules for export to Europe for war purposes at prices representing less than half their value in order to get money to tide them over."

THEATRICAL.

Columbia Theatre, November 30.

—The Trey O' Hearts, Third installment—"Sea Venture"—Beginning at the conclusion of Part 2, "White Water;" Alan and Rose make their way by forest trail to Black Beaver, a backwoods settlement, chiefly a general rural store, where they pick up guides and proceed by canoes to Northeast Carry, at the upper end of Moosehead Lake. There they secure a change from woods clothing to civilized garments, and take a steamer down the lake to Kineo Station.

Judith, meantime, proceeds by forced marches to cut them off. She arrives at Kineo shortly before they do. The train is crowded. Alan, with difficulty, secures two parlor car seats. Judith, in masculine costume, travels unnoticed in a crowded accommodation coach. Alan telegraphs from Kineo for sleeping car reservations, a stateroom for Rose, a lower for himself on the night express through to New York. Judith finds this out. From this on the story progresses to the fourth installment.

Two other reels will be shown, "The Dark Horse," (Imp.), featuring Mary Pickard, and "The Proof of a Man," Victor drama, with J. Warren Kerrigan.

MILE. ANNA PAVLOVA.

—Dancing is considered the finest form of exercise extant by Mile. Anna Pavlova, the great Russian artist who will appear at the Ben Ali, Theatre, Lexington, matinee and night, on Wednesday, December 9. Pavlova says dancing combines pleasure and work in such a way that the hardships are forgotten.

"Dancing is excellent for women—and men—no matter what age," said Mile. Pavlova recently in an interview. "When you dance you combine amusement and exercise. In a word, you exercise to rhythmic motion and obviate all of the 'tired feeling' which most people complain of when they exercise."

START MOVE TO HAVE QUARANTINE MODIFIED.

A movement was inaugurated in Lexington, Wednesday, by Dr. Joe H. Kastle, director of the Kentucky Experiment Station, backed up by members of the Kentucky Livestock Sanitary Board, to permit shipment of the fat cattle of Central Kentucky now ready for market in the United States. Government sealed cars for immediate slaughter at the big livestock markets of the country. Dr. Kastle said there were $250,000 worth of fat cattle now ready for the market in unaffected districts and, in his opinion, no risk would be incurred in letting them go to market. Senator Camden signified his intention to co-operate with Senator James in urging that the quarantine be modified to that extent.

OUR BANK IS A SAFE PLACE FOR IT

Money carried in the pocket slips away easily. Put yours in our BANK; it won't be so hard to refuse a loan to "friends" who will never pay you back. Nor will you foolishly SPEND your money when it is safe in our bank.

We refer those who have not banked with us to those who HAVE. Our vaults and locks are strong. The good names of men of high CHARACTER and known RESPONSIBILITY are also behind our bank.

IRL R. HICKS 1915 ALMANAC.

The Rev. Irl R. Hicks Almanac, now ready, grows more popular and useful with each passing year. It is a fixed necessity in the homes, shops and commercial establishments all over this continent. This famous and valuable year book on astronomy, storms, weather and earthquakes should be in every home and office. Prof. Hicks completes this best issue of his great Almanac at the close of his seventieth year. This Almanac will be mailed for 35 cents. The Rev. Irl R. Hicks' fine Magazine, Word and Works, is sent one year, with a copy of his Almanac, for one dollar. Send for them to Word and Works Publishing Company, 3401 Franklin Ave., St. Louis, Mo. You will never regret your investment. Try it for 1915. 27-11

OLIN IS NO PIKER.

Asserting that if he had succeeded in passing 1,000,000 forged checks at $7 per check he would not be even, Olin Johnson, fifty years old, of Louisville, confessed at Frankfort, Wednesday, that he had been working off his worthless paper at Lexington, Paris and other places in this section of the State. He was held to the grand jury. None of his shady transactions have come to light here, as yet.

WHAT MOTHERS NEED

Too many women struggle under pains and aches. They are not sick—but weak, nervous, irritable.

Such women need that blood-strength that comes by taking SCOTT'S EMULSION. It also strengthens the nerves, aids the appetite and checks the decline.

If wife or mother tire easily or look run down, SCOTT'S EMULSION will build her up.
